

STORY IN PICTURES – PETER'S TRAILER

SIMPSON DESERT ADVENTURE 2010

Well, we started off clean, and we were expecting rain -
(but we didn't expect to have to pack up and get going before dawn to avoid getting stuck!!)

“Yes Peter, it’s dirty!”

“But hey presto! It’s clean again – thanks to the hot Birdsville bore water!”

Trailer off – while we unbog the Triton!!!

All unbogged – trailer back on!!!

Faithful trailer, following wherever the Triton takes it!"

"I wonder what the discussion is about – surely not the trailer!"

“Ever faithful trailer – taking all that’s thrown at it!”

“Flat tyre, did you say” says Peter – “Where’s the nail?” –
“No, no nail – just a slightly dented rim!”

“What’s happened to the level trailer, Robin??”

Peter, making the necessary adjustments to the coupling!

Julie – “Robin, do you think your towbar is going to stay put this time?”
Robin – “Of course it is, it’s the coupling I’m worried about?”

“After some adjustments to the trailer’s ramp, to rebalance the bike on the trailer, it’s almost time to load up the bike again for the journey home.”

Fittingly, all things come to an end, as did our trip, and I guess if the trailer could talk, it would say, “Thank God it’s over!!”
